DELEGATES CHOSEN BY THE DEMOCRATS

THE THEATERS

New sins and sex problems may be accepted in the drama to a certain degree, but after all there is nothing like a simple, happy, youthful story to leap at your heart and nestle there. "Little Women," which will appear October 1 at the Robinson Grand, will do that and do it thoroughly. There is no escape. It is so delicious to be in that fragrant atmosphere with those peaceful and admirable people just to watch them live.

Al. H. Wilson, who comes to the Robinson Grand Tuesday night in "A Rolling Stone," will introduce his latest songs composed expressly for Herbert Hall Winslow's new comedy with music. Mr. Wilson will be assisted in all the musical numbers by six pretty young girls who appear as village children in the first act and as society pupils of a fashionable New York riding academy in the last act. Some of the most tuneful of the new songs are: "Ragtime in Germany," "The See Saw Game of Life," "My Little Climbing Rose," "We Are As Far Apart as the World is Wide" and "Riding."

The Kalem company has released a picture that is making a big hit all over the country, which will be shown at the Odeon theater tomorrow afternoon and evening and in which is featured the members of the New York National League baseball team, known to baseball fame as the Giants. The scenes in which are shown in action the players of the New York club are tied together by a story in which appears three members of the Kalem company. The picture will be shown in connection with three regular reels and two first class acts of vaudeville of singing and dancing.

At the Bijou today is being shown a special Kalem "The Escape," a convict story with Harry English and Henry Hallen in the title. "The Flirt," a Vitagraph feature, is also showing with William Humphries and Dorothea Kelly in the principal roles. A habitual flirt and a too-willing victim are taught a lesson by her husband. It is a surprise.

Tuesday will be shown three splendid pictures. "The Call," a two reel Vitagraph society feature drama, with E. K. Lakin and Edith Storey in principal characters. This picture will be the banner special two reel feature of the year. "Come Seben-Eleben" and "Papa's Baby," two Biograph comedies and "An Apache's Gratitude," a Selig Indian story, are others. The management today added cornet and clarinet players to its already fine orchestra, giving this picture house an added high priced musical attraction.

GORMAN EASY

For the Local All Stars Who Win by a Score of Ten to One.

The Gorman All-Stars baseball team proved easy for the local All Stars in Sunday's game at Union Park, the locals romping away with the game in easy style, the final count being 10 to 1.

The locals had their batting duds on and the offerings of the visiting twirlers were hammered to all parts of the lot, including a home run by Captain Smith.

Cross was on the mound for the locals and he pitched an excellent game, holding the visiting batsmen safe at all times. He was never seriously threatened except in the first when the visitors scored their only run and had two on bases with only one out. However, he rose to the emergency and the next two batters were retired via the ozone route.

TWENTY-TWO DRUNKS.

Saturday night being generally regarded as one of exhalation, there was an extra large session of police court Sunday morning. Twenty-two offenders faced Mayor Will H. Cole, all of them being charged with being drunk or disorderly. Eight of them drew fines, while the remainder were allowed to go their way with warnings as to future offense.

To Attend the Congressional Convention at New Martinsville.

Five delegates and in some instances five alternates each were chosen at mass conventions held Monday afternoon in the ten magisterial districts of the county by the Democrats for the first district Democratic congressional convention to be held Thursday at New Martinsville to nominate a candidate for Congress to succeed John W. Davis.

Camden Sommers, Thomas J. Francis, Luke Murray, Howard Jones and A. C. Lee were chosen delegates, and John A. Tierney, S. G. Dorsey, J. G. Shaw, B. M. Allen and Fred Fordyce alternates, at the Coal district convention, which was held in the Victoria theater.

This meeting was a rather tame affair. It was attended by only a small crowd and lasted but fifteen minutes. Millard F. Bartlett, county executive committee member, called it to order and appointed Camden Sommers temporary chairman and James G. Shaw temporary secretary, which organization was made permanent.

B. F. Allen made a motion to have the chairman appoint a committee of three to select the delegates and alternates. This was amended by John A. Tierney to have the chairman appoint the delegates, but the amendment was voted down and the original motion was carried.

J. B. McAndrew, M. F. Bartlett and James Meredith were appointed on the committee that named the delegates and alternates. After these were announced the meeting adjourned.

There was so little enthusiasm that no one of the few present had the nerve to make a speech.

The Coal district delegates are said to be in favor of M. M. Neeley, of Fairmont, for the congressional nomination.

Benjamin F. Hornor, John J. Dolan, James M. White, David M. Harr and Lee Maxwell were chosen delegates at the Clark district convention held at the court house. Alternates were dispensed with.

The convention was called to order by Lee Maxwell, who named R. S. Douglass chairman and Louis A. Johnson secretary. The temporary organization was made permanent.

The Americans In Panama

Story of the Panama Canal From Start to Finish

By WILLIAM R. SCOTT

Secretary Taft met Mr. Wallace at the Manhattan hotel in New York on June 25. Secretary Taft listened to his reason for resigning, which in the main was that he had under consideration a position that would carry with it a remuneration of approximately $75,000 a year.

Secretary Taft did not conceal his disappointment in Mr. Wallace's course. He began by reviewing how the government had taken him from a position paying $15,000 a year to make him chief engineer of the canal at $25,000 a year; how the formidable obstacles to be met and the supreme necessity of a canal to the nation made it a patriotic work for any American and an honor to be placed at the head of the greatest enterprise of the age.

"For mere lucre," Mr. Taft continued, "you change your position overnight without thought of the embarrassing position in which you place your government by this action."

Secretary Taft then reviewed how the commission had just been reorganized to meet Mr. Wallace's wishes and every change had been approved by the chief engineer. He closed by demanding the immediate resignation of Mr. Wallace. This came the next day and was made public on June 28, with Secretary Taft's hot rebuke, which in the canal zone had a most salutary effect. It put an entirely new complexion on their work to be told that the nation expected every man to do his duty; that they were not down there for the money they could make, nor were they expected to leave because of the hardships they would meet, but that the object of their exile was to give the nation something vital to its welfare. The desertions began to diminish at once, and the announcement on June 30 that John F. Stevens had been appointed chief engineer further strengthened the morale of the canal organization.

LEG BROKEN

When Mr. Robinson's Team Turns Quickly and He is Thrown from Seat.

John C. Robinson, a Craigmoor merchant and former deputy sheriff, has a badly broken left leg as the result of a runaway accident Saturday evening two and one-half miles from his store. He was delivering merchandise and had a spirited team of horses. In turning too quickly the wagon was tilted and Mr. Robinson was thrown out between the tongue and the wagon bed. One of the horses began kicking and they ran away. Both bones in Mr. Robinson's left leg between the ankle and knee were broken.
